

GAIN A COMPETITIVE EDGE WITH IMA SCHELLING TRAINING

IMA Schelling Group USA is now offering training that integrates topics that will benefit quality control, quality management, and sales team members. Our time-tested approach of small class sizes, and utilization of your specific machine setup and user interface, enables our instructors to provide crucial, individualized training.

Our highly qualified training team offers a variety of training platforms from beginner operator training focusing on the fundamentals of machine operation to advanced training specializing in production efficiencies and quality management. Training is a significant tool for employee development and has assumed great importance due to the exceptional rate of change in the internal and external organizational environment.

Course Highlights:

- Training can be on-site or at our US headquarters in Raleigh, NC
- Individual training programs with a strong practical relevance
- Ensure maximum performance and full machine utilization right from the start
- Optimal training in the event of a change of personnel
- Utilize our advanced cutting plan optimization platform
- Efficient material processing reduces waste and saves time
- Develop preventive and corrective maintenance plans

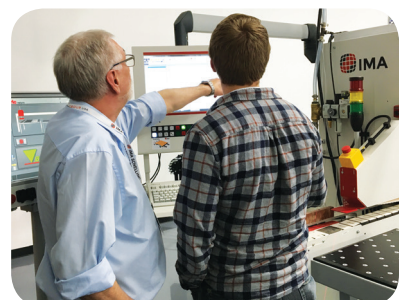

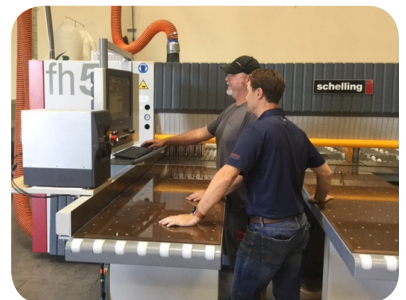

The skills and experience gained at our on-site training facility will enable successful operation and maintenance of the most advanced machine solutions on the market.

All of our programs can be custom tailored to fit your specific training requirements.
